The subject was on parole for robbery, with a search and seizure clause. Officers searched his backpack and found a pill bottle with no prescription on it containing two different kinds of pills. The subject had difficulty maintaining his balance, admitting to drinking “something” at a party earlier, and he became combative with officers. He was placed under arrested for possession of a controlled substance and for being under the influence of a controlled substance.

On Tuesday, 04-15-14, Officer Lee Magalong and Officer Tom Prudden were dispatched to the 200 block of Crocker Avenue on a report of a disturbance between a landlord and tenant. The 27-year old victim said she was possibly drugged the night before and had been sexually assaulted. The victim woke up disoriented and realized some of her property including her purse and boots were taken. Officer Prudden used the “Find my iPhone” app and pinpointed it to an address in San Francisco. The hotel clerk provided a name of the subject checked into the room the night before, and the subject’s address matched where the phone was “pinging”. Officers and detectives went to the address, located the victim’s property and arrested the 47-year old subject.

On Saturday, 04-19-14 at 11:29 p.m., Officer Taylor Johnson was on patrol in the area of El Dorado Street and Santa Elena Avenue when he saw a vehicle blocking the roadway on Santa Elena Avenue. The officer drove towards the vehicle and noticed a female driver who was staring straight ahead. Officer Johnson got out of his vehicle to talk to the driver and knocked on the window several times to get her attention. The vehicle was running, and the driver had her foot on the brake. The officer was unsuccessful in getting any response from her and opened the door. He tapped on the driver's shoulder, and she slowly turned towards him and continued to stare blankly. Officer Johnson noticed the vehicle began to slowly roll towards his patrol vehicle and he then reached across the steering wheel and put the female's vehicle in park. The driver, a 44-year old Daly City resident, admitted to drinking wine and taking a Percocet for her recent ankle surgery. After Officer Johnson conducted field sobriety tests on the driver, he cited her for driving under the influence of drugs.
