Scams/Other

Inheritance Scam

Although this crime did not begin in Daly City, it ended here, and it is worth mentioning. On Tuesday, October 31, at approximately 4:00 p.m., a 56-year old San Francisco resident was at the Costco in South San Francisco when he was approached by a male subject who told him about an inheritance that he was supposed to receive from a deceased family member. The subject showed the victim the will, which stated that the subject was to find two trustworthy people and donate all proceeds from the inheritance to them. The subject told the victim that he would give him $20,000 of the inheritance if he was willing to help him. While they were speaking to each other, the victim said another subject came up to talk to them, and the same conversation occurred. The victim said he began to trust the first subject due to the fact that the second subject was willing to help him in obtaining the inheritance. The first subject asked the victim if he had a bank account where he could deposit the money, and the victim said he had an account at the Chase Bank. The subject requested proof that he had a bank account, and the second subject said he would go to his bank to withdraw money to prove he had an account with funds in it. Both of the subjects entered the victim's vehicle and requested to be taken to the nearest Wells Fargo Bank. All three arrived at the Wells Fargo Bank, and the second subject entered the bank. Upon returning, the second subject showed approximately $20,000 in U.S. currency to the first subject. The first subject then requested the victim to drive to the nearest Chase Bank so the victim could prove he had an account. The victim said he went to the Chase Bank on Gellert Boulevard where he withdrew $7,000. The first subject asked the victim to give it to him, and in order to build trust, he said that the victim could trust him by walking around the block, and upon his return, they would still be there. The victim walked around the block, and both subjects were gone. The first suspect is described as a light skinned black male adult, mid 30's, approximately 190 lbs., average build, wearing a light tan shirt and tan jacket. He described the second subject as a dark skinned black male, 30-35 years old, medium build, and wearing a black jacket.

Found Money Scam

In the past, I have reported about this scam in which one person finds money and promises to share it with the victim. This happened again on Thursday, 11-02-17 at 12:00 p.m. at the Farmer's Market at the Serramonte Shopping Center. An 81-year old Daly City resident said she was approached by a black female and a black male near her parked vehicle. The victim said the male opened up a tote bag that appeared to contain a large amount of money that he found. The victim said they conversed about how they could determine if the money was real. The victim offered to drive both of the subjects to the Chase Bank on Gellert Boulevard to determine the authenticity of the money because the female suspect said she was a bank employee and would have "Mrs. Fitzgerald" validate the authenticity. The victim said she parked her vehicle near the bank but didn't actually see the subject go inside the bank. The male subject waited inside her vehicle, and they talked about his family and his work profession—that he had a jewelry store on 6th Street in San Francisco and that he wanted to move it to Serramonte Shopping Center. The female subject returned and said she was told the money was real and that "Mrs. Fitzgerald" said they could keep the money and divide it between the three of them. The female advised the victim that they would just need to pay the taxes on the money. The victim said the female said they would need to complete a form to show the money came from a previous business, and the subject had a form showing the serial numbers of the currency. The female asked the victim where she did her banking, and the victim drove to the Bank of America on Gellert Boulevard and withdrew $10,000 from her account. The victim said they went back to the Chase Bank where the female went back inside to meet with "Mrs. Fitzgerald" to make a partial payment of her taxes on the money. The victim said she drove both suspects over to the Bank of America on Mission Street because she needed to withdraw additional money. The victim said the suspects had her park in the Wendy's parking lot while she walked across the street to the bank. The victim said the female advised to drive her to a Chase Bank in San Francisco located somewhere near Peoria Street. The victim said the female went inside to meet with "Mrs. Fitzgerald" to pay additional money of her portion of the taxes. The victim said the female returned to her vehicle and asked if she had an additional bank account, and the female said she had one at the San Francisco Credit Union. The victim drove to the credit union, but she was advised they would only give her a cashier's check. The victim met back with the suspects, and they told her she could only pay in cash. The victim went back into the credit union, and the employees still refused to give her cash. The victim said she went back to her vehicle, and both subjects were gone with her $20,000. The victim described the female as a black female, 50 years old, short black hair, wearing a beige shawl and a black shirt. She described the male as a black male, 60 years old, bald, wearing a brown suit and a tie.

Relative in an Vehicle Collision Scam

This one is unique. On Friday, 11-10-17 at 10:30, a 33-year old Daly City resident said he received a phone call from an unknown suspect who asked him if his brother's name was Justin and if he drove a black Toyota Corolla. The victim became concerned because he has a brother named Justin who drives a black Toyota Corolla. The caller told the victim he was an EMT and that his brother had been involved in a traffic collision. The caller told the victim his brother had hit a gang member. The victim said the subject hung up the phone, and shortly after, he received another phone call. This caller identified himself as "Craig", the father of the person that his brother hit, and that both parties were injured. "Craig" told the victim that his son needed to go to the hospital but couldn't, due to the fact that he had warrants and he didn't want his son to go to jail. "Craig" told the victim he had just taken his brother's phone, and if he did not pay him $8,000, he would kill his brother. "Craig" told the victim if he attempted to call his brother, he would also kill him. The caller instructed the victim to go to the nearest bank and transfer money to him. The victim said he did not have $8,000, but he believed he could provide him with approximately $1,500. The victim said he walked to the Wells Fargo Bank at Safeway and remained on the phone with him the whole time, due to the fact that "Craig" said if he hung up, he would kill his brother. "Craig" then instructed the victim to transfer the money via Western Union Bank, also inside of Safeway. The victim complied and transferred the money. "Craig" then told the victim to go to the nearest Target and buy approximately $400 worth of AT&T pre-paid cards. The victim said he purchased the cards and then provided "Craig" with the access codes. "Craig" then said he would drop off his brother at that location. "Craig" told the victim to wait 20 minutes and then to call his brother. The victim waited 20 minutes and called his brother who was surprised and had no knowledge of the incident and was not involved in a collision or held for ransom.

Nextdoor.com

Nextdoor.com is a free private social networking website for your neighborhood. This private network ensures that only those who live in your neighborhood can join; users must go through a verification process. Neighbors ask each other for business recommendations; help in locating missing pets; discuss relevant local government issues; or connect for other reasons. It is very easy to sign up, and I like the fact that the site verifies users by addresses, and it won't allow people to access to a neighborhood if they don't actually live there. Please note: the City of Daly City and/or the Police Department cannot see what residents post—we are only allowed to post information. There is also a mobile application, or you can have it sent to your e-mail. Give it a try! www.nextdoor.com
