San Mateo County Supervisor Adrienne Tissier and the San Mateo County Commission on the Status of Women are traveling around the county to listen and learn from women what their biggest concerns are. The sessions are an opportunity to be heard and help create a new agenda for women's issues for the county. You might even learn about helpful services and programs you didn't know existed.

For more information, call Lisa Coffey, Commission director, at (650) 363 4872.
