The officer met the victim outside of his apartment. The 22-year old victim said he was in his living room when he thought he heard his cat scratching at the door. The victim said he went into the kitchen and saw a male subject standing with a knife in his hand in front of his open refrigerator. The victim said he didn't say anything and pushed the suspect out the open front door. Once the subject made it outside, he said, “But did I hurt you?” The victim told the subject not to return. The victim then texted his friend and told her what happened, and he and his roommate drove around the apartment complex to try to look for the suspect. The victim's friend contacted him and said she found the subject in their building. The victim and his roommate walked over to the subject to try to detain him until the police arrived. The investigation revealed that the suspect had entered another apartment and took a jacket, wallet, keys and shoes. The suspect attempted to gain access to another apartment via a window but was unsuccessful. Officer Herrera took the suspect, a 29-year old Daly City resident, into police custody and placed him in an interview room. The officer left the room and saw on the surveillance camera, the suspect pulled his spandex shorts up to expose his genitals and proceeded to masturbate. The suspect was arrested for residential burglary, attempted burglary, petty theft, possession of drug paraphernalia, possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine), and indecent exposure.

I like the fact that the site verifies users by addresses, and it won't allow people to access to a neighborhood if they don't live there.
